for purely polarized light, the degree of polarization is unity i.e. 1, and the stokes parameters obey the equality  $i^2 = q^2 + u^2 + v^2$ , while for partially polarized light, the degree of polarization is smaller than unity, leading to  $i^2 < q^2 + u^2 + v^2$ . an input beam can be decomposed into purely polarized beams. after propagation through an optical ... detection threshold with partially polarized light - arxiv - distribution was obtained assuming fully polarized light [4,5], so the results cannot be applied directly to the case of astronomical images. the light from a star is known to be unpolarized [6]. imaging optics introduces some polarization [7], so in general the speckles from the star arriving to the detector are partially polarized. properties of partially polarized light remitted from ... -
